

To Whom It May Concern:

I am looking for a part time to a full time position to utilize my talents. I am very skilled in computer repair, website programming, and application support. I have been working with people my whole life with computers, from family to over 2000 clients. I am a very patient person who can help anyone with any temper. I know how to calm someone down and explain how something works. I have great reviews from all of the people I have serviced. The reason why I am looking for new work is to secure more money. The past year was slow for business and I am keeping my options open. I am a very honest and open person that doesn't take anything for granite. I am not sure if you have read 'The Secret' but I live my life very optimistically and it is amazing how everything turns out.

Thank you for taking your time to consider me for a position.
